About the Program: This conference will focus on educating and enlightening participants of the needs, complexities and challenges that face the LGBTQ community and how the Collaborative model can address these issues. This training is particularly relevant as our understanding of “family” continues to expand and be redefined in light of recent legislation legalizing same sex marriage in New York. It promises to be a personal and in depth presentation. Interested professionals of all disciplines are invited to attend.

Faculty: The interdisciplinary faculty includes members of NYACP and LGBTQ Collaborative Professionals of NYC.

Carol Buell, Esq.

Teresa Calabrese, Esq. is a collaborative lawyer and mediator concentrating her practice on serving the LGBTQ community.

Willa France, Esq. has been a commercial litigation attorney for more than 30 years and a transwoman for seven years.

Shelly Goch, CPA has 23 years accounting experience and specializes in tax planning for non-married couples, and the cross border intricacies of international tax.

Bob Raymond, Ph.D. is a psychologist/psychoanalyst with over 30 years experience evaluating, diagnosing, and treating couples, children and families.

Barbara Rothberg, DSW, LCSW has been a therapist for more than thirty years, helping families and couples resolve relationship issues and working as a divorce coach and child specialist.

Guest Speaker: Dru Levasseur

Moderator: Jeffrey Steiger, LCSW is a psychotherapist and collaborative divorce coach. He has been a Board member of NYACP since 2007
